About The Fairgrounds

A Fairgrounds map is located on the back inside cover.

The Colorado State Fair celebrates its 140th anniversary in 2012. Each August and September, the Fairgrounds combine education and fun in a full spectrum of agricultural experiences for a half million people. The site boasts nearly 100 acres and 60 permanent structures.

The largest permanent building is the Southwest Motors Events Center, built in 1995. This facility seats an estimated 7,800 people during concerts and offers a perfect setting to truly enjoy the Fair’s musical experiences, with air-conditioning, a built-in sound system and multiple concession booths. There isn’t a bad seat in the house! Plus, to add to the spectacular shows, concerts are up close and personal with two large screens sponsored by our friends at Loaf ‘N Jug.
Celebrate the Colorado State Fair’s 140th anniversary by visiting the past. The State Fair Museum, located next to the horse show arena is the place to see everything fair related going back through history. The exhibit includes hundreds of relics including saddles, photographs and ribbons. Each year this remarkable collection of fair memorabilia grows and changes guaranteeing that some new element of the Colorado State Fair’s history will be preserved for the next generation.

The Colorado State Fair also has three stunning fountains on the grounds.

During the hot summer days of the Colorado State Fair, visitors are invited to cool off in the Kid’s Fun Fountain. This popular, interactive, attraction is designed with kids’ fun and safety in mind. It has a colorful, non-slip bottom and is located in front of the Palace of Agriculture.

The second fountain can be found right inside Gate 5. Designed by Martin’s Wholesale Greenhouse, this fountain is surrounded by trees and displays a beautiful combination of plants and water.

A third fountain, the “Norm Patterson Memorial Fountain,” can be found inside Gate 2. This display is not only attractive, with a beautiful array of plants and flowers planted and maintained by Pueblo’s Master Gardeners, it’s also educational. Each plant is labeled with interesting information so State Fair patrons can learn while enjoying the surroundings.

Shopping & Eating

Commercial Exhibits
With more than 300 exhibitors promoting their distinctive merchandise, services, and information, commercial displays are an exciting and integral part of the Colorado State Fair atmosphere.

The premier location for commercial exhibitors is within the walls of the historic Palace of Agriculture, located in the heart of the State Fairgrounds. Other commercial exhibit booths are located throughout the Fairgrounds in colorful tents with equally colorful layouts and designs.

All commercial exhibits open at 11 a.m. daily. Outdoor exhibits close at 10 p.m. Sundays-Thursdays and at 11 p.m. Fridays and Saturdays. Indoor exhibits always close at 10 p.m.

Food Concessions
Food vendors open daily at 11 a.m.

You will find all sorts of good eats and treats at the Colorado State Fair. Approximately 50 food vendors will be serving up fine fair food for any appetite.

Feast on frosty lemonades, ice-cold Budweiser beer, bottled water, Pepsi products, meatball sandwiches, tacos, nachos, green chili, hotdogs, hamburgers, pizza, gyros, roasted corn, pork-chops-on-a-stick, pickles, Oreos and Twinkies that are deep fried and much, much more!!!

Manhattan’s Pizza
A local favorite for many, Manhattan’s Pizza has New-York-style pizza, pasta, calzones, sandwiches, ice cold beer and more. Stop by and sample a little of everything with their buffet (11:00 a.m. – 4:00 p.m.) in a relaxing, air-conditioned, New-York-themed pizza parlor.

Hoopingarner’s
You know the Fair has funnel cake and more funnel cake, but this food stop has a funnel cake that is even more special. Stop by and try their own “Red Velvet Funnel Cake,” as well as “Bloomin’ Onions,” fried green tomatoes and more, just the thing to make a Fair experience.

Pioneer Concession - “Coney’s”
Working to add something extra to the great food at the Colorado State Fair, Coney’s is making its mark with gourmet hot dogs and allows you, the customers, to order each dog any way you want it!

Sophie’s Sidewalk Cafe
Hungry for a special dessert? You’ll want to be when you stop by Sophie’s. This food stop has wraps and salads for people who want healthier Fair food. And for dessert, the cafe sells its own “Fudge Puppies”, which are chocolate-covered Belgian waffles on a stick. Nice!
Colorado State Fair Goes Green

The Colorado State Fair continues to work on a feasible and cost-effective way to enhance its recycling programs. In May, 2010, the Fair received a grant from the Colorado Department of Public Health and Environment to purchase 25 recycling stations for public use during events.

By the end of 2010, the Fair collected almost 1,200 pounds of aluminum and 330 cubic yards of plastic and cardboard!

But that was not enough to reach the Fair’s recycling goals.

In July of 2011, the Fair was given an Economic Opportunity grant which was used to purchase 76 more recycling stations, 10 cardboard-collection stations and a cardboard baler. Already the program is succeeding because the Fair is hauling away less trash and collecting a lot more recyclable material.

The Fair currently recycles paper, cardboard, cooking oil, manure and animal bedding, glass, plastic, aluminum and other scrap metal. To date, the Fair has recycled more than:
- 2,500 pounds of aluminum,
- 60 tons of mixed glass, plastic, paper, loose cardboard & various scrap metal) and
- approximately 10 tons of baled cardboard.

It’s the Fair’s goal to help preserve the environment and stay current on “greener” options. Be sure to look for the blue recycling containers for your plastic and aluminum trash!

Colorado Department of Agriculture

The mission of the Colorado Department of Agriculture is “to strengthen and advance Colorado’s agriculture industry; ensure a safe, high-quality, and sustainable food supply; and protect consumers, the environment, and natural resources.”

An important way to accomplish that goal is through education. As part of the department, the Colorado State Fair provides the Agricultural Pavilion to promote and show the vital importance of agriculture to everyone. Agriculture is not only about children showing their livestock at the Fair, it is how farmers and ranchers across Colorado help feed and clothe the state, the nation, and the world.

52nd PRCA RAM Rodeo

It’s sure to be a party as Professional Rodeo’s top cowboys and cowgirls bring spectators to the edge of their seats with wild rides and fast times. Just one more reason why we love this Fair!

Held in the Budweiser Rodeo Arena at 7 p.m., fairgoers can enjoy the original extreme sport while the Colorado sunset paints the Pueblo sky.

Back by popular demand, Boyd Polhamus of Brenham, Texas, three-time announcer of the year and fifteen-time National Finals Rodeo Announcer joins the Colorado State Fair line-up.

Eight-time PRCA Specialty Act of the Year, Keith Isley, also returns to the line-up with funny-man acts that combine a mix of trick roping, high impact-low impact aerobic workouts, various animal routines and trick riding.
Each night of rodeo in the Budweiser Rodeo Arena boasts something new and different, so don’t miss a single night.

Chris Young will be performing following the rodeo on Friday night and Thompson Square, presented by Big R Stores; will perform after the rodeo Saturday night.

Sunday is American Heroes Day presented by Y96.9. Anybody with proof of military affiliation or an emergency responder ID can purchase a $5 ticket for this evening, a $7 savings. Sunday night will also feature the American Freestyle Bullfights to be hosted at the Colorado State Fair with a special, must-see competition between the Pueblo Fire and Pueblo Police departments.

Monday is Colorado State University at Pueblo’s Pack-The-Fair Day. They may not have a rodeo team, but this night of Rodeo action will be jam-packed with CSU-Pueblo students and enough spirit to look like a pep rally on steroids!

Tuesday is “Cowboys Kickin’ Cancer” night. Fans have the opportunity to support the St. Mary-Corwin Cancer Patient Needs Fund by making a donation or bidding on a pair of custom-made Cowboys Kickin’ Cancer Chaps, custom-made by Betty Jo Griffin of Leather Design. The large array of colors in the chaps represents the various fights against different cancers. Rodeo-goers on this night are encouraged to wear the color representing the fight of their choice. For more information on what each color represents, visit the Cowboys Kickin’ Cancer page on www.coloradostatefair.com. Admission is just the right price too; $1.
Harry Vold
Stock supplier

Harry Vold was born in 1924 on a ranch in Alberta, Canada. More than 80 years later, he is still running one of the largest stock contracting companies in North America.

The Harry Vold Rodeo Company, now based in southern Colorado, produces rodeos in seven states each year and provides bucking stock for more than 100 rodeo performances.

Known as “Duke of the Chutes,” Vold has raised some of the most-acclaimed animals in the Professional Rodeo Cowboy Association, including:
- 1979 and 1980 Bull of the Year “777,”
- 1983 Fighting Bull of the Year and Hall of Fame Inductee “Crooked Nose,”
- 1991-93 Bronc of the Year “Bobby Jo Skoal,” and,
- Bronc of the Year at the 2009 National Finals Rodeo “Painted Valley.”

Harry Vold raises approximately 35 colts and 15 bulls every year on his 30,000-acre ranch southeast of Pueblo, Colorado. His extensive breeding experience allows him to concentrate on quality in his “born to buck” breeding program.

Vold has delegated the day-to-day managing details of the Harry Vold Rodeo Company over to his youngest daughter, Kirsten, but still keeps a careful eye on the 500 head of livestock, four full-time employees and 12 part-time employees at his working ranch.
Twenty-three years ago, Boyd Polhamus announced a College Rodeo in Uvalde, Texas, after pretending to be a rodeo announcer in his college’s practice arena while he was competing as a cowboy. Now he has announced 13 National Finals Rodeos in Las Vegas, Nevada, second only to Only Hall-of-Fame Announcer Bob Tallman.

Polhamus was voted the PRCA’s Announcer of the Year for 2007 and again in 2008. In 2000, 2003 and again in 2005, he was honored as the WPRA Announcer of the Year, and he’s been a Top-Five Finalist for the same honor in the PRCA on eleven different occasions.

On those rare occasions when he can be found at home, Polhamus records commercials in his home studio and enjoys team roping, the Green Bay Packers, and working with his bucking-bred cattle on the Band-Aid Ranch in Brenham, TX.

Keith Isley
Rodeo entertainer

Keith started his rodeo career in 1972 at the age of 15 competing in bareback riding and bull riding while he also tried bullfighting. He found he enjoyed the bullfighting (protecting the cowboys) more than the competition, and now Isley has been named PRCA “Clown of the Year” for the last six years and “Comedy Act of the Year” the last three years.

Being somewhat shy, Isley initially found large audiences intimidating. However, after a period of time he found that the baggy pants and make-up that he wore provided him a comfort shield between himself and the spectators. Slowly but surely, he began telling jokes and performing clown acts.

Some of his comedy routines consist of trick roping, high-impact-low impact aerobic workout, various animal routines and trick riding.

Friends of Rodeo

In 1992, two Texas team ropers gave birth to Friends of Rodeo, in hopes of preserving America’s Western Heritage and protecting rodeo and other western events from anti-rodeo animal-rights activism. The organization has over 30 volunteer representatives and more than 1,000 members throughout the U.S. and Canada.

The goal of Friends of Rodeo is to educate, whether it’s a school child, an adult spectator, or a legislator. Friends of Rodeo wants the world to appreciate the Western heritage of rodeo and its place in the present day world, and, most importantly, that rodeo animals are well cared for, appreciated and respected.

Colorado State Fair
Rodeo Committee
In 2007, a volunteer rodeo committee was formed to help offset some of the costs associated with putting on a professional rodeo.
Today, the committee is made up of over 20 members and has saved the Fair close to $150,000 in expenses through labor and facility improvements. Colorado State Fair staff and Board of Authority would like to thank the following members of the Colorado State Fair Rodeo Committee for all their hard work and dedication: Shawn Brewer, Tony Brewer, Gary Clasby, Quinn Donnell, Jim Newell, Ty Pechek, Larry Roe, Jack Roe, Becky Salameno, Tony Salameno, Martin and Summer Smythe, Jeffrey Thomas, Amy Whitcomb, Richard Whittaker, Mary Whittaker, Brandie and Edna Wolf, Mark and Heather DiOrio, Dan Hernandez and Candy Upton.

Chris Young & PRCA Ram Rodeo

Rodeo starts at 7 p.m., followed by concert
Budweiser Rodeo Arena

With the release of his third studio album, NEON, Chris Young leaves no doubt that this is his time to shine. NEON’s first single, “Tomorrow,” is one of seven songs on the album co-written by Young and is the fastest-rising hit of his career. The song has been downloaded more than 500,000 times.

The thrill of entertaining took hold of Young at an early age. His first moments on a stage were in school plays, but it wasn’t long before he realized he wanted to showcase a different talent in the spotlight. “I love to sing,” admits Young. “I was the kid in high school who lived and breathed music every moment of every day.” Totally focused on making his passion a career, Young was playing 150 dates a year by the time he went off to college to major in music. While dead serious about the subject of his studies, he soon felt the need to get a different kind of higher education.

He dropped out of school and started learning on the road and at writer’s nights in Nashville. After landing a record deal with RCA, Young’s self-titled album would go on to earn Young the title of best-selling new country male vocalist for 2006 and a nod for the Academy of Country Music’s Top New Male Vocalist award.
His second CD, “The Man I Want To Be”, gave Young three back-to-back Number One singles, “Gettin’ You Home,” “The Man I Want To Be” and “Voices.”

Young went on to open for Alan Jackson and Rascal Flatts and earned his first--ever Grammy nomination for Best Male Country Vocal Performance for “Gettin’ You Home.”

Fight Brigade MMA Cage Fighting

Southwest Motors Events Center

For the first time in Colorado History, the world’s fastest-growing sport, Mixed-Martial Arts Cage Fighting, is coming to the 140th Colorado State Fair. Fight Brigade MMA Cage Fighting places Colorado’s top MMA athletes in competition with New Mexico’s top athletes in caged combat. The undercard is Firefighters vs. Law Enforcement and promises to be an amazing experience.
Thompson Square isn’t a real place, exactly. It’s the musical territory staked out by the husband-and-wife duo of Keifer and Shawna Thompson, an exciting and unpredictable area where country meets rock, rough meets smooth and one vagabond heart finds a harmonious common ground with another.

Fans got to know Thompson Square with the release of their No.1 platinum radio hit “Are You Gonna Kiss Me Or Not,” and the iTunes’ Country Song of the Year (2011) has grown to become the most-played song at Country radio in 2011 and spent 12 consecutive weeks as the #1 Country Ringtone.

Shawna grew up in tiny Chatom, Ala., learning traditional country songs from her guitar-playing father and soaking up the sounds of Reba McEntire and Alabama on the radio. Keifer was raised in Miami, Okla., where he was exposed to everything from Roger Miller and Merle Haggard to punk rock and heavy metal before finding his most profound influences in tunesmiths like Bruce Springsteen and Tom Petty. Each moved to Nashville... within the same week, and met at a singing competition a few days after hitting town.

“She beat me in pool,” Keifer recalls, “and that’s where it started.”

Each had come to Music City intending to pursue a solo career, but soon joined forces.

“A year ago we were bartending,” Keifer says. “To go from behind the bar to the other side of the world, it’s been difficult to grasp the magnitude of what’s going on. We just try to put out songs that we love, and we hope our fans will like them too.”

Extreme fans won’t want to miss the American Freestyle Bullfights, with close calls, amazing athletes and animal artistry. Some of the most talented athletes of any sports genre are cowboy-protection bullfighters. Sacrificing life and limb to take the hit is what these guys do for a living. In an effort to establish the best of the best in the business, a competition was derived from the sport of bull riding and the need for quality bullfighters in American rodeo.

Taking the saying, “No Guts, No Glory” to the extreme is what these guys do and what fans will see on Sunday. A winner will be crowned based upon the skill he displays in controlling and maneuvering his 2,000 pound opponent for the duration of 70 seconds. Precision in jumping the bull, as well as contact with the bull and handling the barrel will also be evaluated with prize money up for grabs.

Merle Haggard
7 p.m.
Southwest Motors Events Center
$30

Few country fans are unfamiliar with Merle Haggard or doubt his stamp on modern country music.

His childhood years were spent in Bakersfield, California, and the death of his father when Merle was just nine became the catalyst that led to a squandered youth. As a teenager he took on every unskilled job that would have him, from oil field roustabout to hay-pitcher to short-order cook. He also served time for crimes ranging from burglary to auto theft and even escape. But a three-year stretch in San Quentin Penitentiary became the experience that finally changed Haggard’s perspective and the spark that turned his head around. His early years of pain and tribulation provided him with infinite raw material to be spun into the rich imagery that is now indelibly imprinted on the idiom. His days outside the law were woven into “Lonesome Fugitive,” “Sing Me Back Home” and “Branded Man,” his understanding of his mother’s torment led to “Mama Tried” and “Hungry Eyes” while his affinity for the hourly laborer produced such as “Workin’ Man Blues” and “5:01 Blues.”

Haggard has written hundreds of songs and more than 40 of his singles have been Number One hits. He’s released more than 65 albums and received dozens of awards for his music.

Steve Miller Band, presented by Kaiser Permanente
7 p.m.
Southwest Motors Events Center
$40

Following their Number One blues album, “Bingo!,” in 2010, the Steve Miller Band last year released “Let Your Hair Down,” which features the last recordings by harmonica virtuoso Norton Buffalo, Miller’s “partner in harmony” for 33 years.

One of rock music’s all-time greats, the Steve Miller Band has sold more than 30 million records in a career spanning more than 40 years. His trademark blues-rock sound made him one of the key artists in classic rock radio.

Born October 5, 1943 in Milwaukee, Wisconsin, Steve Miller grew up in a musical family. His mother, Bertha, was a gifted vocalist and his father, Dr. George (Sonny) Miller, was an amateur tape recordist. Steve’s uncle Dale Miller gave his 4-year-old nephew a guitar. His father’s friend, guitarist Les Paul, taught the young boy a few chords and his father secretly recorded the exchange. “Steve, you’re really going to go places,” Les Paul told him.

Since then, Miller has written and performed hits like “The Joker,” “Take the Money and Run,” “Fly Like an Eagle,” “Jet Airliner,” “Jungle Love” and “Swingtown.”

The Temptations & The Four Tops
7 p.m.
Southwest Motors Events Center
$30

For more than 40 years, The Temptations have prospered, propelling popular music with a series of smash hits, and sold-out performances throughout the world.

The Temps began their musical life in Detroit in the early 1960s. It wasn’t until 1964 however, that the Smokey Robinson written-and-produced “The Way You Do the Things You Do” turned the guys into stars. An avalanche of hits followed, such as “My Girl,” “Since I Lost My Baby,” “Papa Was a Rolling Stone,” “Ain’t Too Proud to Beg,” “Beauty Is only Skin Deep,” and “I Wish It Would Rain.”

The classic lineup was Otis Williams, Melvin Franklin, Paul Williams, Eddie Kendricks and David Ruffin. Other stellar singers, Richard Street, Ali-Ollie Woodson, joined and added their luster to the groups’ growing fame.

The current lineup consists of Otis Williams, Ron Tyson, Terry Weeks, Joe Herndon, Bruce Williamson.

The Four Tops

The quartet, originally called the Four Aims, had their first Motown hit, “Baby I Need Your Loving” in 1964. Their songs, soulful and bittersweet, were across-the-board successes. “Baby I Need Your Loving,” “I Can’t Help Myself (Sugar Pie, Honey Bunch),” “It’s The Same Old Song,” “Reach Out I’ll Be There,” and “Ain’t No Woman (Like The One I’ve Got).”

The group started as Levi Stubbs, Abdul “Duke” Fakir, Renaldo “Obie” Benson and Lawrence Payton. Following Payton’s death in 1997, the group briefly worked as a trio until Theo Peoples, a former Temptation, was recruited. When Stubbs subsequently grew ill, Peoples became the lead singer and former Motown artist-producer Ronnie McNeir was enlisted to fill Payton’s spot. In 2005, when Benson died, Payton’s son Roquel replaced him.

In 1990, with 24 Top 40 pop hits to their credit, the Four Tops were inducted into the Rock & Roll Hall Of Fame.

Kenny Loggins
7 p.m.
Southwest Motors Events Center

Kenny Loggins has been a guitar-slinger with a psychedelic rock band, half of a legendary country-rock duo, a successful solo artist, a sonic pioneer in the smooth jazz genre, a reigning soundtrack superstar and an enduring recording artist and live performer whose most recent works have spoken deeply to both young audiences and decidedly adult and worldly concerns.

By any standard, Loggins’ commercial impact has been extraordinary; twelve of his albums have gone platinum and beyond. His hits include “This Is It” and “Whenever I Call You Friend” and soundtrack hits like “I’m Alright” (from Caddyshack), “Footloose” (from Footloose), “Danger Zone” (from Top Gun), and “Nobody’s Fool” (from Caddyshack II).

Kenny Loggins was born in Everett, Washington, and moved to the Los Angeles area as a young boy. After a short and, in retrospect, rather surprising stint as a guitarist for The Electric Prunes, Loggins scored a job as a $100-a-week staff songwriter and penned four songs on the Nitty Gritty Dirt Band’s 1970 album “Uncle Charlie and His Dog Teddy,” among them the classic “House at Pooh Corner.” He later joined forces with Jim Messina before splitting in 1976 for solo stardom.

Tex Mex Fest with La Mafia, Bobby Pulido and
7 p.m.
Southwest Motors Events Center
$20

A hit on both sides of the U.S./Mexico border, La Mafia started their career in Houston, Texas, before becoming one of the most influential Latin recording artists to come from the region. La Mafia’s “Estas Tocando Fuego” was the first album by a Tejano group to sell a million copies.

La Mafia
Since then, La Mafia has won several Latin Grammys and were most recently nominated for a Latin Grammy in 2009 for their CD “Eternamente Romanticos”. The group volunteered for U.S.O. tour in 2004 and 2005 to entertain the troops overseas and continues to influence artists in the U.S. and abroad.

Bobby Pulido
The son of longtime Tejano legend Roberto Pulido, Bobby Pulido combines the sound of Tejano with the country music he grew up listening to in Texas. Pulido and his band released Desvelado in 1996, which became a platinum hit and was followed... by Ensenamie later that year. Pulido’s greatest success came with his third album, 1997’s Llegaste A Mi Vida. He won awards for Album of the Year, Male Entertainer, Male Vocalist and Best Video at the 1997 Tejano Music Awards.

Rick Trevino

Beginning with “She Can’t Say I Didn’t Cry,” Rick Trevino has racked up several hits with his own blend of new country and album rock.

Trevino’s father was a member of a local Tejano group and both his parents fostered his musical interests. As a child, Trevino listened to a Tejano, country, classical pianist Van Cliburn, and mainstream pop/rockers like Elton John and Billy Joel. Soon, he was taking classical piano lessons and studying the clarinet. After graduating from high school, he was offered a baseball scholarship to Memphis State University but declined the offer to study music.

In 1993, he released his first album, the Spanish-language “Dos Mundos,” which included “Just Enough Rope,” the first traditional country single to be released in both Spanish and English. He’s had several albums and hits since and continues to be a fan favorite.

In a tradition that dates centuries before the first American rodeos, the gathering of local charros at Mexican ranches to show off their skill in horsemanship and daring continues to this day. The charro tries to be more than a cowboy, but a true master of horseback riding skills. The Celebracion de los Charros is put on by Roberto Torres of the Asociacion de Charros Las Delicias in Colorado and it is one of several group working to keep this historical form of rodeo alive in the public eye.

CTTPA Truck and Tractor Pull
3 p.m.
Budweiser Rodeo Arena

What is a tractor pull? It started with contest between farmers to see who had the most powerful tractor. Now that has grown to giant competitions in the U.S. and Europe, sometimes involving modified machine with as many as four engines. All tractors are hooked to a sled to see how much weight them can pull down the course. But the sleds have a movable weight system that transfers the weight forward as the sled is pulled along, making it harder and harder to drag along the ground.

The Colorado Truck & Tractor Pullers Association has been promoting truck and tractor pulls in the five-state region since 1972. Many years later, the CTTPA now provide eight classes of pulling power (five tractor classes and three truck classes).

The Colorado State Fair developed a partnership with Hansen WeatherPORT Corp. totaling $300,000 over ten years for the 18,000-square-foot building, which is used for year-round events on the Fairgrounds.

WeatherPORT, based in Delta, Colorado, specializes in high-quality, fabric tension structures. Jim Keehne, CEO of WeatherPORT, said his company has been excited by the partnership.

“We are a Colorado company and have maintained a special interest in the agriculture and ranching community,” he said, “Our durable units feature the ability to be moved to other locations and be put to multiple uses. The shelters we provide can be small or large, made to fit special needs and are an answer for the Colorado State Fair and exactly what many agricultural businesses need today.”

The WeatherPORT Entertainment Tent is located west of the Budweiser Rodeo Arena on the north side of Fountain Park and acts as the Fair’s hot spot when the sun goes down. Thank you to the Giodone family for providing the floor in the WeatherPORT Entertainment Tent.

The Colorado’s Touchstone Energy Cooperatives Junior Livestock Sale is the largest event of its kind in Colorado and the championship event for the state’s 4H and FFA. The Sale is instrumental in supporting the future of Colorado’s agribusiness as it demonstrates to youth the importance of raising quality livestock and the work required of those who pursue careers in agriculture. The Sale also helps youth exhibitors raise money for college and to participate in future livestock projects.

The 2011 Junior Livestock Sale welcomed hundreds of Colorado philanthropists whose collective bids helped the sale reach $406,925. Over the past 32 years the Junior Livestock Sale has raised a combined total of $7,321,435 for the youth involved in 4H and FFA. All proceeds from the sale go directly to the education funds of the youth exhibitors.
