Jaylyn Westenbroek has appreciated the learning opportunities this year serving as an ambassador for the Boulder County Fair and Rodeo as one of the 2018 Ashley's Princesses. She has made lasting memories and developed various friendships. Jaylyn is honored to pursue her biggest passion of agriculture while carrying out the legacy of Ashley Doolittle through The Princess Program.

Jaylyn has just finished her freshman year at Mead High School where she challenged herself with various honors and Advanced Placement classes. She strives to be invited to membership in the adult society in her later years at Mead High School. Other programs Jaylyn is involved with includes being a leader of Fellowship of Christian Athletes. She also is a JV player for her high school tennis team. Additionally, she loves being a member of the local Saint Vrain Valley FFA chapter where she hopes to grow in her leadership and involvement in upcoming years. She is currently the reporter for the chapter's officer team. Her involvement this year in FFA included speaking contests, quiz bowl team, and milk quality team. She has achieved first in extemporaneous speaking at the chapter level, placed in the gold category as an individual in milk quality in state, and was recognized as one of the outstanding freshmen of the year. At fair, she exhibits her projects through both 4H and FFA. Through 4H, she has shown rabbits as well as participating in projects such as photography, scrapbooking, and model rocketry. Jaylyn has been a part of 4H for three years and loves to expand upon her involvement and grow with her various activities each year. She dedicates her time to being involved in programs that help her to express her passions. Jaylyn hopes that she can share her passions with others as she spends the 2018 year promoting her love for agriculture and the western way of life.

Jaylyn believes that the Boulder County Fair and 4H program is a great way to learn about agriculture. She believes that this program provides many opportunities for youth to develop leadership potential and ultimately learn about the western way of life. Jaylyn wasn't raised on a farm, but hopes to inspire others and demonstrate the importance of agriculture. She believes that if you work towards your goals you can pursue any of your passions. Jaylyn is excited to promote her personal values, honor Ashley Doolittle's vision of the program, and to keep building relationships with the multitude of people she meets throughout this year of service.
