HONEY SHOW & APICULTURE EXPOSITION RULES

Please also read the General Information, Rules and Regulations of the Fair.

- There is no entry fee; no premiums will be paid and no passes will be issued.
- Entry is open to anyone interested in honey, honeybees, apiculture, or apiary products. Exhibitor need not be a member of CWBA or any other beekeeping club or association.
- The decisions of the judges are final.
- All entries must be produced by the entrant in the production year in which they are exhibited and not previously exhibited at the Central Washington State Fair.
- Entries must have no identifying labels or marks on the entry other than numbers or letters placed on them by the show superintendent.
- The show superintendent may refuse exhibits for reasons he or she believes are just.
- Each entry may only compete for one award and therefore may only be entered in one class.
- Judging cards will be used and these become the property of the exhibitor at the close of the show.
- Judges have the right to open any container.
- If the judges find no entry within a class qualifies for a particular award they may choose to omit that award.
- Neither the Central Washington State Fair nor the Central Washington Beekeepers Association can be held responsible for any loss or damage to entries.
- Entries must remain on display until the close of the Fair.
- The superintendent may dispose of any entries not claimed. If you are unable to pick up your entries & awards during scheduled release time, alternate arrangements must be made at time of entry.
