Former champion looking good at Fort Worth Stock Show & Rodeo

for the Fort Worth Stock Show & Rodeo

FORT WORTH, Texas (Feb. 4, 2020) – In 2016, Ivy Conrado dominated the Fort Worth Stock Show & Rodeo (FWSSR) and went on to qualify for her first Wrangler National Finals Rodeo (NFR).

Things have changed for the talented athlete since then. In 2016 she rode her great mare CFour Tibbie Stinson, known as Tibbie, who was voted the AQHA/WPRA barrel racing horse of the year.

She rode Tibbie at her first NFR, but since then, a palomino mare, KNFabs Gift of Fame has been her superstar. The mare's fans, and there are a lot of them, all know her as JLo. Conrado calls Hudson, Colorado home, but now lives in Nowata, Oklahoma with her husband, team roper Billy Jack Saebens.

They married last October and not long after she headed to Las Vegas where the dynamic barrel racing duo won the 10-round championship at the NFR and Saebens got the reserve world title.

Things have changed here as well. The new Dickies Arena is playing host to the rodeo that has been overhauled. Contestants had to qualify to compete in one of seven brackets at the FWSSR ProRodeo Tournament.

The final bracket was completed on Tuesday night and Saebens and JLo were the top money winners in the field. They stopped the clock in 16.55 and 16.61 seconds to win both rounds and $3,520 advancing them to the semi-finals.

Competition starts over in each division of the tournament. Wednesday night's rodeo is the wild card round where the top two contestants will advance to a performance of the semi-finals on Thursday and Friday.

Because of Saebens success, she will advance directly to the semi-finals. She is hoping to be among the top four that qualify for the championship finals on Saturday night where a first-place finish will be worth $20,000.

Her husband was also competing in bracket seven, heeling for Tyler Wade of Terrell, Texas. They finished third on Monday with a 5.8, then tied for the win Tuesday with a 4.6. A total of $2,420 has them going directly to the semi-finals as well.

The wild card round of the FWSSR ProRodeo Tournament will start at 7:30 p.m.
