EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR'S MESSAGE

Eric Bauman
Executive Director | CEO
GOAL Foundation

It's an honor to be affiliated with an organization that continues to make such a positive impact in our community. As we reflect on 2020 and our Mission, we are honored to have had the opportunity to provide experiences that encourage all to "Get Out And Live" for the last 20 years and look forward to creating and enhancing our events and programming as we look to the future.

The last year has been an unprecedented year for our world. Through the many challenges, the acts of kindness and support from our community speak volumes and has reiterated why I am so grateful to be part of the GOAL Foundation and our community.

While we were not able to produce our signature events, we are extremely grateful for the opportunity to re-invent, re-imagine, and continue to create relevant, meaningful content to meet the needs of our community. We created new virtual events that allowed us to provide the opportunity for our athletes to engage, train, and participate in events in a safe and socially distanced manner.

Youth programming continues to be a major focus as we plan to expand our programming for 2021. We will be adding additional summer camps and experiences allowing children to learn lifelong skills. As a result of fundraising and our generous donors, the GOAL Foundation is continuing to give back by expanding our financial scholarship opportunities so that more children in our community will have the opportunity to "Get Out And Live" at GOAL Summer Camps.

The GOAL Foundation's impact and reach are far broader than just events. The GOAL Foundation truly makes a difference and has a positive impact on the lives of our athletes, volunteers, spectators, youth, and our community. There is no greater gift than the act of giving back and we are sincerely grateful for the opportunity to build our community, build families, build partnerships, and ultimately inspire everyone to, "Get Out And Live"!

With Sincere Gratitude,

Eric Bauman

Our mission is to inspire the Greater Ogden Community

BEST VOLUNTEERS ON THE PLANET

VOLUNTEER SPOTLIGHT - UPWARD BOUND PROGRAM

The Weber State University Upward Bound program is a federal TRIO pre-college program funded by the U.S. Department of Education for future first-generation college students. As part of their mission to prepare students to be the first in their families to graduate from college with a bachelor's degree, they build pathways for students to be active citizens of the Wasatch Front community through frequent participation in community service events.

It is for this reason that WSU Upward Bound formed a strong partnership with the GOAL Foundation many years ago. Each spring, the Ogden Marathon is their largest community service event, as all 82 of our students dedicate up to six hours organizing and distributing hundreds of marathon runner bags at the finish line in downtown Ogden.

One of Upward Bound's senior students reflects on her first marathon, "One of my favorite memories is the first time I participated. Just helping out was really fun. I think that was when I finally built up enough courage to talk to these two kids from the program. We had a really fun time getting to know each other that day and now they're some of my best friends."

- Every year they bring 80 volunteers on a Saturday morning, ready to go at 5 am!
- These kids are the best of the best! They always show up, rain or shine, they work hard and have a good time!
- Since 2015 the Upward Bound kids have been our lead volunteers for the Ogden Marathon Bag Drop.

VOLUNTEER SPOTLIGHT

DANIELLE COLLIER - Written by Stacy Bernal

If there's a nonprofit in Ogden, chances are that at some point in time, Danielle has directly or indirectly worked with them. While attending Weber State University, she worked in the office of Student Affairs where she learned about a lot of opportunities to get involved. She ended up serving on the Service Team through the Center for Community-Engaged Learning where she racked up some tremendous good karma.

As she neared her graduation from WSU, Danielle went on a school-sanctioned Alternative Spring Break to San Francisco where she serendipitously rode shotgun to the trip advisor, who just so happened to be Clairesse Miljour. Danielle recounted their conversation as a pivotal moment in her life and that she "kinda fell in love" with Clairesse as she told her about organizations like the Jr. League of Ogden and GOAL Foundation. Upon returning from California, Danielle immediately signed up for JLo and got involved with GOAL.

At GOAL, she interned for a while and was later hired to help with the annual Ogden Marathon. The money she earned helped fund a month-long service trip to Mozambique. Her time serving with JLo connected her to many other amazing Ogden women who would leave a lasting mark in Danielle's journey and help propel her to become the person she is today. One of those women was Kimberly Bowsher, director of the Ogden Downtown Alliance.

Danielle knew that ODA was hiring for a new position there but felt like she was underqualified, especially since she hadn't graduated yet. But because of her involvement with JLo, and with encouragement from other members, she felt empowered enough to apply, and (no big surprise) she got the job. Her life was awesome and she was totally killing it and then... she felt drawn to do more. She felt an overwhelming calling to join the Peace Corps.

"I always feel more productive when I'm working for a purpose over a profit," Danielle said. She believes that, in order to impact real changes in the world, service needs to be sustainable. That driving passion pushed her to apply for the community development sector of the Peace Corps and ultimately landed her in Macedonia. She was just getting started on leaving her mark (which may or may not have included a romantic connection) when the COVID-19 pandemic ravaged the world and she had to be evacuated back to the United States. While her Peace Corps stint currently hangs in limbo, her desire to make the world a better place still burns bright. Her future plans include international travel, working toward a master's degree, and always serving others. Danielle is a sterling example of the importance and impact of volunteering. Her advice to anyone interested in serving is:

"Find something you're passionate about. If you're not sure what that is, volunteering with nonprofits is such a good way to learn what that is."

We are so fortunate to live and recreate in such a unique, beautiful setting. The proximity to world-class all-season mountain sports, coupled with unparalleled beauty and a vibrant downtown creates a setting that is not only unique but inspiring to all that live, work and play here.

#GETOUTANDLIVE

Our community is one of a kind. There is a synergy that is always present and at the forefront. It's the secret sauce that sets Ogden apart and it's something that everyone at GOAL feels so grateful to be a part of.
