Stetson Stallworth Corporate Marketing Associate

Stetson Stallworth eats, sleeps, and breathes Las Vegas. Between throwing out the first pitch at Las Vegas 51's games and attending his first National Finals Rodeo at just 2 months old, he is the definition of 'Vegas Born & Raised.'

Growing up in an athletic family, Stetson learned early what hard work means. Whether it was sports, school, or anything else, Stetson gave it his all! By the time he graduated from high school, he was both a National Champion in Football and State Champion in Basketball – not to mention the recipient of several college football scholarship offers.

After playing two years of quarterback at Adams State University (Alamosa, CO) and another two at California Lutheran University (Thousand Oaks, CA), Stetson graduated with his B.S. in Business Marketing in May of 2020. He elected to continue his education and graduated with his M.B.A. just nine months later, also from Cal Lutheran.

Today, Stetson dedicates the majority of his time to his three major passions: his Faith, his Family, and his Future. Also high up on his list of priorities is Las Vegas Raiders football.

Having been a Raiders fan since 1997, Stetson knows a little something about loyalty; and now, with the Silver & Black's relocation to the city he loves, Stetson is on cloud nine!

Along with his favorite football team, Stetson also takes great pride in his family. Stetson's father, Steve Stallworth, is a former UNLV Quarterback and current

THE STALLWORTH FILE

Born: October 10, 1997

Family: Stephanie (mother), Steve (father), Savannah (sister)

Hobbies: Just about anything outdoors

General Manager of the South Point Arena & Equestrian Center. Stetson's mother, Stephanie Stallworth, is the Director of Public Affairs for Cox Communications by day, and a philanthropic junkie by night. Besides his beloved dog, Sammie, Stetson has one sibling – Savannah Stallworth who works for Learfield IMG College selling sponsorships for UNLV athletics. All in all, the Stallworths are a tight-knit group and are proud to be called Las Vegans.

When Stetson is not in the office, you will likely find him either sitting by a campfire deep in the woods or at nearby Lake Mead reeling in a fish. Matter of fact, he enjoys doing just about anything outdoors – fishing, hunting, camping, reading, working out, you name it.

Stetson joined the Las Vegas Events team in February of 2021 as a Corporate Marketing Associate and is a true believer that the work he does makes the world a better place. Having the opportunity to work on all of the events that he grew up attending brings him such joy. In his own words, "Working for LVE is a dream come true!"
