Hello all. With the fall rodeos well underway the executive board has just recently returned from our fall meeting held in Guthrie, Oklahoma. The meeting was a great success and lots of new and exciting changes are on the horizon. We are coming off of the biggest National Finals the NLBRA has ever had with 1223 contestants competing this past year. We are excited to announce that our friends at Montana Silversmith and Scott Thomas Saddlery have been awarded the bids for the upcoming years and can't wait for the youth board to begin working on picking out the prize line for the 2020 finals.

The rule change proposals have been submitted and you will have a chance to review them through January. They have been posted in this issue and will repost in the January issue of Rodeo News; you can also find a copy of the submitted proposals on our website at nlbra.com. Please provide any feedback or thoughts you may have in writing to awalter@nlbra.com or mail them to 5050 Edison Ave Suite 105 Colorado Springs, CO 80915 no later than January 15th 2020.

The national office is currently accepting applications for our personnel for the 2020 finals. If you are interested you may apply online at nlbra.com, or print the application off of the website and email it to awalter@nlbra.com. This will include all of the division secretaries, announcers, timers, judges, pick up men, bullfighters, and also anyone interested in being a stock contractor. Please submit your application along with any additional required paperwork prior to December 1st, 2019. The board will make their selections during our winter meeting, and notification of the selections will be sent at that time.

Also, the second half of your early reservation camp spots are due now. You have until January 31, 2020 to have the remaining balance paid. For those of you that will still be in need of a camp spot please continue to watch Facebook and our website for updates on the release date that will be in March. You will also purchase your stalls at that time. If you have any questions prior to the release please feel free to contact the national office.

I would like to wish you all the best of luck in your upcoming rodeos, and look forward to hearing from you if you have any questions at all.
