(Raffle, in this instance, is defined as any lottery or offering in which a number of persons pay for tickets, shares, chances or any other form of evidence of having paid for the opportunity to participate, in an attempt to win a prize by random drawing).

A raffle is not to be confused with a “drawing” by which those exhibitors and concessionaires who have contracted for space with the Fair may offer prizes to patrons and prospective customers by using a procedure of “registration” at NO COST to the persons registering. If a drawing is involved with your display, the actual prize must be shown and drawn for on the final day of the Fair with a South Texas State Fair official present. The winner’s name must be left at the Exhibits and Concessions Office once the drawing takes place. A sign must be posted next to the drawing box that informs all patrons that completion of the entry form establishes a relationship that removes the patron from the “do not call” list.

Exhibitors and concessionaires staging “drawings” in their booth space must notify the Fair of their intent to use this procedure before opening day of the Fair.
